Shear Studs In Stainless Steel

In stud welding, shear studs are used to secure framed buildings by creating a shear connection between steel and concrete. These fasteners secure beams and resist loading between concrete and steel components in a composite construction. They provide strong and reliable fastening that's imperative in many infrastructure applications.

A YouTube video player interface. The video title is "Shear Studs" and the channel is "BACO ENTERPRISES INC". The video content shows a close-up of several stainless steel shear studs. The studs are cylindrical with a wider, flat top section. The video player includes a play button, a "Watch later" button, a "Share" button, and the YouTube logo in the bottom right corner.
